Dear Tony Molesworth

I am writing to congratulate you on the success that your club has enjoyed this year in the 2019 domestic competition season.

I wanted to thank you all as a club and to acknowledge the large amount of dedication and commitment from the range of people who must have contributed towards this achievement.

Our sport is very fortunate to have many committed and skilled volunteers whose work is fundamental to supporting the 181,000 registered English club athletes and runners of all ages, abilities and aspirations in our 1,800 member clubs and bodies and enabling them to make the most of their talent and dedication.

As well as the athletes, coaches and team management directly involved in this success, I am sure there are many others who have played a contributory role to this, and the many other day to day activities of your club.

Our sport is founded on the expertise and incalculable contribution made by many volunteers, without whom our sport would not be able to thrive and grow in the way that it does.

For England Athletics to be able to work to support the efforts of the volunteers is a great privilege. We will continue to strive to do this to the best of our ability.

I wish you every success in the future and thank you for all you do for the sport.

Yours sincerely

Chris Jones
CEO England Athletics
